2008/2009

Welcome to Bibbitybobbityboo!

About Us

We met eight years ago whilst working as waitresses in a restaurant, and have been close friends ever since. Used to juggling motherhood, work and study, we thought 'Why not throw a new business into the mix!' In 2007 Bibbitybobbityboo was born and this is where the journey begins...

Our Ethos

Our aim is to provide you with a wide range of the highest quality, toys, games and gifts at sensible prices which also provide extended play value for your children. We also recognise how important it is to be able to try things out, ask questions and take your time making choices which is why we offer you the opportunity to purchase via home parties as well as direct from us. We have listed below a number of critical factors that you might want to know about us:

Helpful advice from knowledgeable staff

We understand that choosing the right product for your child is important from a number of perspectives including safety, the enjoyment factor and developmental values. As independent retailers, rather than manufacturers, we can offer 100% impartial advice and assistance via email, over the telephone or in person during our home parties.

Good quality products

Everything we sell is sourced from reputable manufacturers. This means you can be safe in the knowledge that you have bought a quality product that conforms to all of the latest British and European Safety Standards (EN71) and we also endeavour to ensure that all our products are ethically produced.

Excellent customer services

Because things can go wrong from time to time, we also know how important it is to look after customers once they have made a purchase. Should you have any problems we would always ask you to contact us as a first port of call. We will then deal with any issues and work with you to get them sorted as soon as possible.

We hope you enjoy!
